Good morning everyone from our rental home in Prescott, AZ. We are slowly adjusting to the 10-hour time difference from Istanbul and just as slowly unpacking and beginning to re-adjust to life as normal. We both took a couple of naps yesterday and were up at 3 AM this morning. It will take a couple more days for our bodies to adjust. Here's a pic of some of our travel mementos that we brought back with us. The books are for my travel library. The rug is the one Liz bought in Istanbul, the coasters from Chateau Coutet in St. Emilion, and the two hand-carved statues of the Virgin Mary and Child are from Bethlehem. We've also got some wine being delivered from Bordeaux and a beautiful piece of ceramics from Turkey.

Congrats to Billy Horschel on winning the Memorial. Incredible putting performance down the stretch yesterday. Fun to watch, especially the eagle putt on 15. I wonder why more pros don't try his unusual lefthand low putting grip. It looks really solid to me. His three kids were SO excited to see their Dad win.

C&C and I are beginning to explore all the walking trails at Talking Rock. There are over a dozen in total. Our new favorite is the East Perimeter Trail which takes us close to our new lot in Sterling Ranch which is now covered with rocks and dirt. Our builder is getting closer to starting work on clearing the lot and building the pad which will be approx. 4 feet above the natural grade and require two stone retaining walls. It's also the start of monsoon season here in Northern Arizona. The rain clouds you see in the distance are pretty much a regular occurrence every afternoon.

66 highway. This restored Conoco Station called the U-Drop Inn aka Tower Station is the highlight of the town. For all you Pixar fans, the 2006 Pixar computer-animated film Cars is set in the cartoon village of Radiator Springs, which was created as a composite of real landmarks and personalities encountered by Pixar artists on multiple research trips on 1,200 miles (1,900 km) of the former U.S. Route 66. Among the buildings and structures based on Route 66 landmarks is a version of Tower Station. U-Drop Inn's unique design and architecture is portrayed as an automotive body shop owned by the character Ramone, a Chevrolet Impala lowrider.

As I was driving from Cortez CO to Four Corners yesterday, I spotted this unusual rock formation, pulled over and snapped this photo. I later learned it is Chimney Rock, a National Monument, and the former home of 2000+ ancestral Puebloans aka Anasazi between the years 925 and 1125 when they mysteriously abandoned the site just like they did in the more famous nearby Chaco Canyon. For more info, see the Wiki links below. BTW I was hoping to stop at Four Corners and take a picture with C&C. Unfortunately, the site is still closed due to COVID concerns so that picture will just have to wait.

I always enjoy coming back to Newport Beach and playing Pelican Hill GC. Played the tougher South Course today. I had no chance of breaking 80 especially with the temps in the high 80s / low 90s. I wilted big time on the back nine. You could take a picture on every hole on this course.

Today I drove the whole length of Big Sur from Cambria to Monterey on my way to meet Liz in San Francisco. It's a drive everyone should put on their bucket list -- multiple times. It never gets old or boring. I learn or see something new each time I drive it. Hwy 1 is in pretty good shape. They are still repairing the road in a couple of places and you have to wait for traffic signals where they have reduced the road to one-way only. But I never had to wait more than a couple of minutes, so it's no big deal.

One of the reasons I spent the night in Cambria was I wanted to see why people would wait 2+ hours in line to get a seat at Sea Chest Restaurant that does not take reservations. I was #8 in line and got there two hours early with a bottle of wine to help pass the time. By the time the doors opened at 5:30, there were over 100 people waiting patiently, many of them enjoying their pre-dinner BYOB cocktails. Well, all I can say is that it was worth the wait. I had calamari and petrale sole. Both to-die-for. Plus, I got the best view in the house overlooking the beach. The first service at 5:30 is literally first-come, first-serve. Everyone rushes to secure their favorite tables once the doors open. To my surprise, the first guests ran to the bar where they could see the chefs at work. That allowed me to secure the best 2-seat table in the house, One added bonus of waiting two hours was I struck up a conversation with a retired linguistics professor who sat next to me on the nearby benches while we were waiting. We had a nice time together and I made a new friend. PS - if you come to Sea Chest, bring cash. They do not take credit cards.

Liz was in the Bay Area this weekend to attend her 50th high school reunion from Alameda HS Class of 1971. Here she is with two of her best friends Sally and Darlene. We decided to make an extended trip out of it and are spending the next three nights in San Francisco and then two more nights in Napa before heading back home to Northern Arizona. Carpe Diem. PS - As has become our custom, on trips like this I drive and Liz flies. I started the solo portion of the trip with two nights in Vegas.

We had dinner last night at Trader Vic's in Emeryville. When I was first dating Liz fifty years ago, I would sometimes take her to Trader Vics -- both here in Emeryville and in San Francisco. The SF restaurant has subsequently closed. Lots of memories. This restaurant remains a favorite for Cal alumni, especially after Saturday afternoon football games. Go Bears, now 3-1 on the season.

I skipped over my two-night stay in Vegas before heading to Cambria. It's just a four-hour drive to Vegas from our new home at Talking Rock. I ate both nights at my favorite restaurant, Mon Ami Gabi, a French bistro at the Paris. It's directly across the street from the Bellagio, so if you get the right seat, you can have dinner AND enjoy the water fountain show. Nice. My favorite thing to do in Vegas (other than play blackjack of course) is to walk up and down the Strip and check-out all the casinos and retail shops. It's quite an experience. I got over 10,000 steps in both nights. And in case you were wondering, Vegas is back. The boulevard and casinos were packed with tourists and wedding parties. Good to see.

I just learned about this fascinating company on an NPR broadcast. Their hydropanels literally are making water out of thin air. This could solve lots of problems around the world if they can scale the technology and make it affordable for the masses.

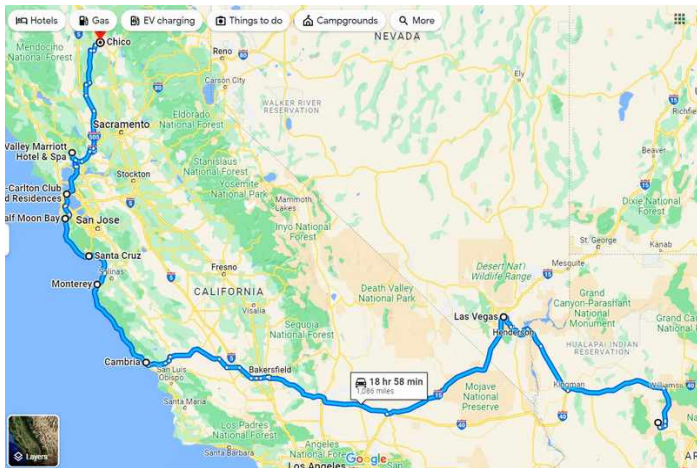

Our Hydropanels use the power of the sun to extract clean, pollutant-free water from the air... but how do we do it? Let us explain our one-of-a-kind technology: 💧 Solar energy powers the panel completely off-grid 💧 Fans draw in ambient air and push it through water-absorbing material that traps water vapor 💧 The water vapor is extracted into and condensed into liquid that is collected in the reservoir 💧 Minerals are added to make perfect drinking water #cleanwater #technology #water

I have checked-off one more bucket list golf course. Bill and I played the Broadmoor East championship course a couple days ago on a chilly day when the temps didn't get above the low- to mid-50s. We had a great match and headed into the 18th hole all square. Bill managed to make a miraculous par from out of the trees and prevailed one-up. I don't particularly like Donald Ross courses. Most of the greens are dome shaped with lots of slope from back to front. Downhill putts are nearly impossible to stop. We both had our share of 3-putts. Nonetheless, this is one fantastic golf course that every serious golfer should play at least once in their lifetime. Staying at the Broadmoor is an added bonus.

Liz was not feeling well after coming down from Pikes Peak so I walked a few blocks in Downtown Colorado Springs and found this gem of a restaurant where I ate solo at the bar watching MNF. French onion soup to start, bone-in ribeye, baked potato, creamed corn with bacon, couple glasses of cabernet, and key lime pie to finish. Every course was absolutely delicious. The food at the Broadmoor was good, but not even close to Mackenzie's Chop House. Put this restaurant on your list if you are ever in downtown Colorado Springs.

Here they are: From Kyle - Mom, thank you for always being there for me and my family. Despite our geographical distance, I always look forward to our weekly check-ins and truly appreciate your dedication to being an enormous presence in our lives, especially Coco's. Happy Birthday and I can't wait to celebrate many more with you! From Lance - Mom, you are the ultimate boss. Whether you were running our family, a Theta "Barn Dance" in '73, or a whole company 30 years later, you did it all with extraordinary dedication, integrity, and grace. I am forever grateful for your love, support and wisdom. Happy Birthday! Here's to many more! From me - we all love you very much (Cara and Cassie too) and hope you have a special day today and in Sedona next week where we will celebrate with a couple of nice meals and walks amidst the red rocks. I look forward to continuing to explore the world with you by my side for many years to come. Happy Thanksgiving to all our family and friends. Liz and I are celebrating in Las Vegas with Lance Williams and Michelle E. González. November 24th, 9:20 AM

Sunday, November 13th, 7:26 AM

I took the girls on a half-day roadtrip yesterday on AZ-89A over Mingus Mountain into the historic mining town of Jerome and then over to Sedona to take a quick look at and hike in the red rocks. It's a twisty, turny road over the mountain that my MDX handled well. As per normal, the girls enjoyed their trip and are ready for more.

The pictures below are from Jerome looking down at the Verde Valley.

We all travelled to the Wynn for our Thanksgiving dinner and had a fantastic meal at their upscale SW Steakhouse. Such a beautiful venue and great food too. We didn't stick around to gamble as most of their blackjack tables were $100 minimum, a bit more than we prefer. The $25 and $50 tables at the Aria are more to our liking.

My kind of humor. March 6th, 6:51 PM

A old woman was sipping on a glass of wine, while sitting on the patio with her husband, and she says, "I love you so much, I don't know how I could ever live without you"... Her husband asks, "Is that you, or the wine talking?"... She replies, "It's me... talking to the wine."

Nice little hike with Bill Michel and C&C. Bill and I were fraternity brothers at UC Berkeley in the early 70s and have stayed in touch all these years. He and his wife Susan Michel travel the county in their RV affectionately called Waldo. They are on their way to Sedona before heading back home near Denver CO for the start of the golf season..
